

THE NOYES MUSEUM OF ART OF STOCKTON UNIVERSITY PRESENTS:

DREW GRIFFITHS

---

AN EXHIBITION OF RECENT WORK: 3/11/20 – 6/14/20

THE NOYES ARTS GARAGE OF STOCKTON UNIVERSITY, ATLANTIC CITY, NJ

About the Exhibition:

Drew Griffith makes use of color, texture, depth, and geometric elements to connect with the viewer's subconscious. Paintings are created over time, carefully layering colors and wax that are then burned or "set on fire" to build structure and complexity, pushing you to look more closely. The works are a tactile experience that longs to be touched, examined, and discussed because of what lies just beneath the surface.

About the Artist:

Drew Griffiths is an established artist whose creativity flourished at an early age. A desire to stay indoors led to his love of writing, creating art, and reading. An appreciation for comic books launched his exploration into intense colors and emotionally driven stories. Over time, Griffiths' devotion to writing developed into a passion for short fiction. This, in turn, led to the pursuit of a BFA in Creative Writing.
